- America's unparalleled progress is based on freedom and dignity of the individual, sustained by basic moral and religious concepts.
- Economic progress, cultural advancement, ethical and religious principles flourish best where people are free, responsible individuals.
- Individual freedom and opportunity must not be sacrificed in a quest for guaranteed "security."
- We believe in government by legislative and constitutional law, impartially administered, without special privilege.
- We believe in the representative form of government—a republic—as provided in our Constitution, in limitations on government power, in maintenance of equal opportunity, in the right of each individual to freedom of worship and in freedom of speech, press and peaceful assembly.
- We believe that the basic principles of Americanism—with emphasis upon freedom, dignity and the responsibility of the individual, and our private competitive enterprise system—should be taught in the schools.
- Individuals have a moral responsibility to help preserve freedom for future generations by participating in public affairs and by helping to elect candidates who share their fundamental beliefs and principles.
- People have the right and the responsibility to speak for themselves individually or through organizations of their choice without coercion or government intervention.
- Property rights are among the human rights essential to the preservation of individual freedom.
- We believe in the right of every person to choose an occupation; to be rewarded according to his/her contribution to society; to save, invest or spend; and to convey his/ her property to heirs. Each person has the responsibility to meet financial obligations incurred.
- We believe that legislation and regulations favorable to all sectors of agriculture should be aggressively developed in cooperation with allied groups possessing common goals.
- We support the right of private organizations to require membership as a prerequisite for member services.

Throughout this policy book, you'll notice a small number at the end of each policy statement. The number following the ID number denotes the year the Farm Bureau policy was adopted by the voting delegates. The policies adopted in 2023 will be automatically deleted from NDFB policy at the next annual meeting unless voting delegate action commands otherwise. The number 25 designates policy adopted at the past NDFB Annual Meeting in Bismarck.

If any policy conflicts with another policy, the most recently adopted policy takes precedence.

Landowners must be informed of their right to legal or financial counsel as well as the easement entities' ability to change terms of the easement when approached with a proposed easement. Signed proof of this information should be part of the easement.---ID#: 2519/25 801.02

North Dakota Game and Fish Department may not enter into any agreement with landowners that extends more than 5 years without approval from the North Dakota Legislature. Any agreement with a landowner is void if property affected is sold or transferred to another party.---ID#: 2391/23 801.03

We believe entities interested in acquiring easements should notify all stakeholders, prior to attempting acquisition, with the tentative route, legal property description and a list of affected landowners. This should take place 60 to 90 days prior to easement acquisition activities. ---ID#: 2684/24 801.04

No entity may purchase or attempt to purchase easements of private property until the agency approving the project has been formally notified of the project. Notice of proposed project should be published in all current methods of public information, such as official county newspapers.---ID#: 2518/25 801.05

The State of North Dakota should develop reclamation plans for historic salted lands damaged by energy development prior to 1990.---ID#: 2380/23 902.01

We believe surface owners should see the productivity of their land restored after mineral development. Whereas land shall not be bond released until productivity is restored to prior energy development based upon soil maps and county yield data.---ID#: 2718/25 902.02
